

WOMAN

A new beginning for you too

every time people told me: “I saw your ex with someone. He looked splendid!”. A lot of my efforts went into thinking and I wondered: why? I thought maybe things would go better or there might be a chance for reconciliation and that he is coming back! I made efforts to think on something that no longer existed.

I sat there at the shore, lost in my thoughts and some tear drops found the way to my cheek. In my thoughts I was searching for a solution I had not thought of before. At that moment I realized that if I continued holding on to the memories, I would keep on turning on a roundabout. Up to that morning, had I been walking around with an imaginary heavy backpack and a heart full of pain.

That afternoon God made me realize that a woman does not give up easily. She keeps persevering till the end. That was for me the start of my new beginning.
